1 Specification

S-0026 is a celestial body, located at the centre of our solar system, in which the Earth currently orbits. It appears as a G-type main-sequence yellow dwarf star being an almost perfect spherical volume of hot plasma. S-0026 appears to be made up of a mixture of 73% hydrogen, 23% helium with the rest being a mixture of various other gases.

2 Containment Procedures

Here are listed a series of propositions made by research team R-026 concerning S-0026's containment. In some cases, the propositions are beyond current human technology, but in all cases are theoretically possible.

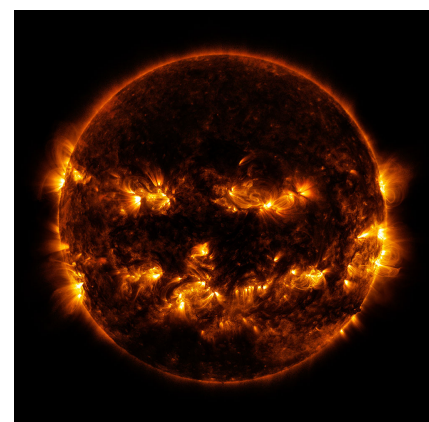

Fig. 1. Active surface regions on S-0026's surface resemble a angry expression. Imaged by the Solar Dynamics Observatory on Oct. 8, 21██.

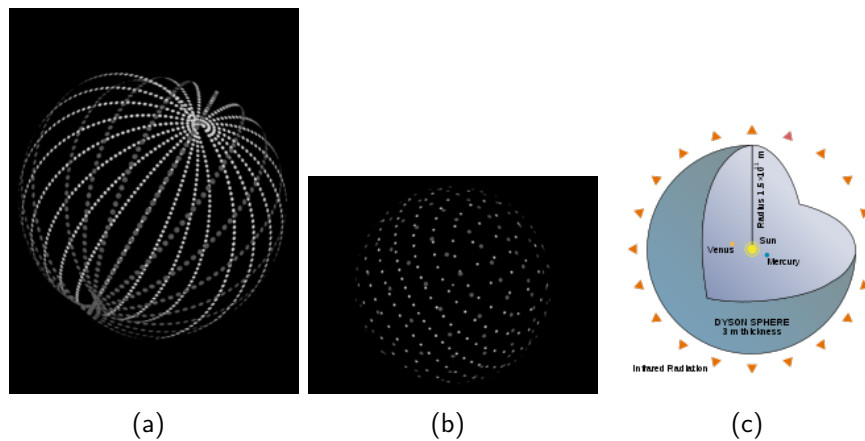

Fig. 2.

- (a) A possible arrangement of the swarm. Rings are 15 degrees relative to one another around a common axis of rotation.
- (b) An hypothetical arrangement of statites around S-0026.
- (c) A hypothetical sphere construct which could completely negate all instances of S-0026-1.

R-026 has suggested a feasible workaround for this limitation concerning S-0091 [See S-0091] and possibly S-0080 [See S-0080] given it complies. [REQUEST APPROVED]

2.1 Proposition 1 - Celestial Entrapment via Dyson sphere

R-026 has suggested the possibility of building a mega-structure around the sun, known as a Dyson sphere (See figure 2), which could encompass S-0026 and capture any of S-0026-1. There are 3 main considerations that were made for the configuration of the Dyson sphere. A Dyson swarm, a Dyson bubble, and lastly a Dyson shell. Concerning a Dyson swarm, the complications which arise with avoiding collisions may be significant, so a Dyson bubble may be preferred. This would be much more viable as the "orbitals" would not orbit S-0026 but instead counteract S-0026's gravity. This would be achieved by utilising the radiation pressure created by S-0026 with solar sails achieving a totally stationary equilibrium state around S-0026. Lastly a Dyson shell, which would be the most complete solution but the hardest to achieve, would involve complete encapsulation of S-0026 within a contiguous structure. R-026 considers these near-future solutions.

2.2 Proposition 2 - Celestial Relocation with a Stellar Engine

R-026 has proposed that humanity could leave S-0026's influence using a stellar engine (See figure 3). Over a few million years S-0026 could be moved, bringing the entire solar system with it, and at a suitable time, humanity could migrate to another star when within a desired proximity. The most promising design for a stellar engine would be Iterol Drive, devised by Prof. Iterol Hess in 2106. The drive follows mostly the same design as the Caplan Drive.

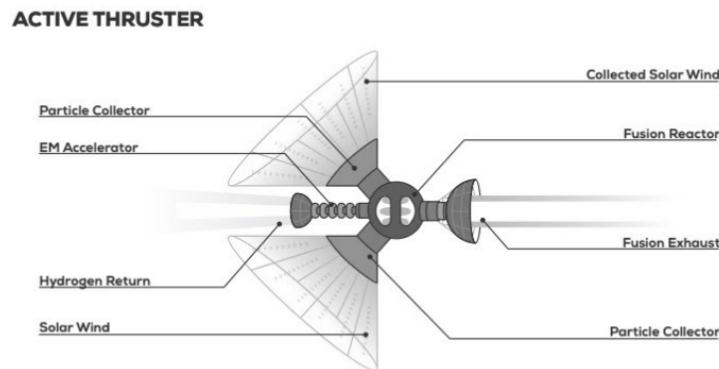

Fig. 3. A theoretical celestial relocation engine devised by Astronomer Matthew E. Caplan in the year 2020 which the Iterol Drive was based upon.

Concentrated stellar energies from S-0026 are used to excite the surface regions of S-0026 to create volumes of solar wind that can be collected using substantial magnetic fields to redirect the mass into the assembly. The assembly would separate the mass into hydrogen and helium, the hydrogen being streamed into a thermonuclear fusion reactor creating an exhaust of radioactive Oxygen burning at a billion degrees, and the helium being accelerated towards the sun to stabilise the forces. The only major difference between the Caplan Drive and the Iterol Drive is an improved hydrogen return system.

2.3 Proposition 3 - Artificial Supernova

R-026 also proposed the possibility of S-0106 codename "The Eternity Bomb" [See S-0106], being used to cause a chain reaction to possibly neutralise S-0026, or in the unfortunate event initiating the EOW-026-2 "Dead Sun" scenario [See addendum 1]. R-026 believes this as a potentially the last ditch effort to neutralise an EOW-026-1 "New Dawn" scenario [See addendum 2] from a substantial instance(s) of S-0026-1, in which the Earth's entire electrical grid fails permanently.

2.4 Proposition 4 - Reality Engine

R-026's last proposition and likely it's most fantastical involves a construct aptly named the "Reality Engine". It involved the perpetual torment of a level 10 reality manifester, wherein the only method of release is to replace S-0026 with a more suitable celestial body. The torture method in question requires the use of S-0055 "The Forever Serum", to keep the subject alive indefinitely whilst S-0059 [REDACTED] to the subject's organs. It is theorised it would take the average level 10 manifester 10 ± 1.5 years of constant torture to achieve a complete replacement of S-0026 with a new celestial body. However, due to the chaotic nature of the practice of manifestation, it cannot be said with certainty whether the end result would be desirable.

3 Behaviour

S-0026 emits energy in the form of light, which sustains life on Earth. This light includes infra-red energy, UV light, and radiowaves. Other than the normal emissions expected from a star of S-0026's class, S-0026 exhibits an abnormal amount of solar activity at periodic intervals of a few hundred solar cycles on average. In these periods of heightened activity, the resulting geomagnetic storm can create a significant corona mass ejection (an instance of S-0026-1) inducing devastating effects on Earth.

The Carrington Event The Carrington event was a strong geomagnetic storm which occurred on September 1st 1859 during S-0026's 10th solar cycle. The resulting instance of S-0026-1 induced the largest geomagnetic storm to date at that time. The storm caused auroral displays visible from all across the world, bright enough to confuse day with night. Due to the lack of technology at the time, the only electrical systems effected were telegraph systems. However, reports say that various telegraphs exhibited anomalous behaviour, such as writing messages unattended. The messages in question had cryptic meanings and could not be deciphered. One notable example was "feel the endless s..ep, unending night, t.e eternal d..". It is believed that this message was sourced from S-0026 itself.

The Telesphoros Event The Telesphoros Event occurred on December 17th, 2109 during 32nd solar cycle on Earth 2 [See S-0074]. The events that took place were significantly more disruptive than the previous Carrington Event 250 years prior. Due to the extensive technological integration in modern society, the storm which followed the instance of S-0026-1 from S-0026 caused widespread electrical disruptions and extended outages of electrical grids across the globe. This single handedly triggered a chain of events which resulted in E2-MGBE 026-1, the largest Mass Global Breach Event recorded in Earth's 2 history, and the first recorded "Anomalous Storm" event, and subsequently its last [See addendum 2].

4 Origination

R-026 is unsure of S-0026's origin, or the events that led to it replacing the original Sun. It is believed, however, that this must have occurred at least before 1859 wherein the Carrington Event occurred. R-026 have made links to the ancient Sumarian solar deity, Shamash. R-026 reports that Shamash was the god of justice and equity, becoming the judge of the underworld at night. Throughout recorded history various solar deities have arose, however the worship of the Sun has been diminishing since modern society arose. R-026 believes this lack of worship to be a possible reason for the increased activity of "anomalous proportions"[See addendum 3].

5 Postscript

5.1 Addendum 1

EOW-026-2 "Dead Sun" is a hypothetical world ending scenario in which S-0026 is successfully terminated. Assuming S-0026 terminates silently, 8 minutes of light from S-0026 will remain before the Earth goes cold. Earth will continue to orbit around the now void space at S-0026's origin preceding the 8 minute mark, before escaping the solar system. In this time the corporation has put in place various plans to preserve humanity [See S-████]. These plans will be changed [See S-████] in the case of an "loud" termination of S-0026.

5.2 Addendum 2

E2-MGBE 026-1, now referred to as the "Anomalous Storm " event was a series of catastrophic incidents that led to a global dis-function in containment procedures on Earth 2. This resulted in the EOW-026-1 "New Dawn" scenario ending all non-anomalous life on Earth 2. The following event log was discovered in Earth 2's corporation incident log at Alpha-Site █, it details E2-MGBE 026-1.

[START OF EVENT LOG]

[16/12, 15:50] Solar Dynamics Observatory reports spike in solar activity. Reports show irregularities in sunspot counts 4 days prior and continually.

[17/12, 5:28] A previously undetected instance of S-0026-1 hits Earth's magnetosphere inducing the largest geomagnetic storm since the Carrington Event

[17/12, 5:29] All 119 corporation facilities report power outages and system failures

[17/12, 5:30] Facilities report backup generator systems are non-functional. 63% of facilities have gone silent at this point.

[17/12, 5:34] Facility 14 regains communication briefly. What follows is a transcript of the distress call originating from F-14.

[START OF TRANSCRIPT]

[17/12, 5:34] Site-coordinator █████ : God, please help us. Everything... it's all breached. We are all going to die! S-00██, S-00██, S-00██ have all breached containment...

[17/12, 5:34] Radio Silence

[17/12, 5:37] Squelching sounds

[17/12, 5:37] Door shuts

[17/12, 5:37] Site-coordinator [REDACTED] : Sh*t. We..we have made it to the safe room. We need a goddamn response unit now!

[17/12, 5:38] Sobbing

[17/12, 5:38] Site-coordinator [REDACTED] : I'm talking to no one here, aren't I. The corporation never cared, they are just going to leave us in here. Contain the breaches inside, maybe blow us up to bits. Huh? ...Oh what's the use...

[17/12, 5:38] Radio cuts

[END OF TRANSCRIPT]

[17/12, 5:45] All nuclear warheads at breached sites detonate, killing estimated 10000+ personnel

[17/12, 8:01] Due to the widespread anomalous activity and nuclear warhead detonation, the public are now aware of the corporation and anomalous entities

[17/12, 8:40] All global powers form together to contain the spread of anomalous chaos. What remains of the corporation joins in this effort.

[17/12, 8:40] God. Why am I even transcribing this. The corporation is dead. Humanity will soon die. All is lost...

[REDACTED] The black beast will awaken. Some call me Abaddon, some the endless night, the unrelenting nightmare, prince of night. Some worship me as a god of the stars. I am the god killer. You will burn in anguish before me, demons will rise up and rip apart reality before you. I will take every instance of flesh and spread it across the universe, every piece at the heart of a star. And u will feel the endless sleep, the unending night, the eternal day. And only then will you be blessed with the mercy of hell itself. We are legion. The black beast will awaken.

[END OF EVENT LOG]

5.3 Addendum 3

R-026 have come to the conclusion that the events on Earth 2 can be avoided by worshipping R-026. R-026's research has shown a trend with decreased appearances and worship of solar deities and an increase in anomalous activity from S-0026. R-026 has begun to formulate a religion based around S-0026 as apart of the Deus Solaris plan. [Further Detail Needed]
