

Anomalous Entity Report

"List of Unremarkable Objects"

Subject - 0065¹

¹Department for Classification of Non-typical Phenomena

2829 Words

Document ID:111179710611

Memorandum: Temporary measure for consistency

Containment Class: Safe

Recontainment Class: Minimal

Ethical Class: Magnolia

Market Class: Prelude

1 Specification

Within this case file is a list of a series of anomalies with too minor an anomalous feature, non-anomalous objects related to classified and unclassified anomalies, or simply overly unusual objects. Each object has differing containment, recontainment, ethical and market classes, but recovering their individual respective digital case files since the Cyber Wars have been deprioritised. All are currently classified under the S-0065 branch for consistency.

2 Containment Procedures

All items mentioned in this document have minimal containment procedures and have been deemed "low risk" by the internal Parole Board for Anomalous Entities (PBAE). While all items have different behaviour, they have been determined to pose no significant threat to individuals or the general public. However, ongoing monitoring and occasional reassessment are recommended to ensure continued safety and containment. Additionally, personnel interacting with these items should remain vigilant for any changes in behaviour or anomalous activity, reporting such occurrences to the appropriate authorities for further evaluation and action.

3 Behaviour

Item-001

Description: A set of 12 filament lightbulbs connected to a wooden board in a 3x4 pattern. The lightbulbs are connected in series to an external switch with an "on" and an "off" setting.

Properties: The lightbulbs appear to be standard. However, when turning the switch on only one random light bulb turns on. This lightbulb changes each time you flip the switch on and off, contrary to how you would expect them all to turn on, having been connected in series. There is no recorded pattern related to which a light turns on.

Item-002

Description: A T-shirt with a picture of the state of Alabama on the front. The shirt has minor wear and tear and a price tag of $5 is attached to it. The name Alabama is also incorrectly spelled "Alabbma" on the front of the shirt.

Properties: Nothing special happens when interacting with or wearing the shirt. Video surveillance showed the shirt spontaneously appearing in Dr. Kawpins Office. The shirt materialises out of nothing in the middle of the room, there is no trace of anything else extraordinary.

Item-003

Description: A plain brown coffee mug with a chipped handle, formerly owned by Dr. Conall. The chip was caused when Dr. Conall accidentally dropped the mug onto his desk, spilling his coffee everywhere.

Properties: The mug creates and releases helium into the air 3 minutes after coffee of any kind is poured into the cup. The release of helium only occurs when coffee is poured into the mug, coffee cannot be created in the mug for example mixing coffee powder and milk in the mug. There have been unsuccessful attempts to upscale this to allow for an apparent infinite source of Helium. This would grant the Corporation a fantastic monopoly on global helium supplies as sources around the world become depleted.

Item-004

Description: A Rubix cube slightly larger than the average.

Properties: Despite being mechanically identical to a standard Rubix cube, individuals deemed less intellectual and incapable of solving a conventional cube are able to solve it with ease. Computers and individuals who excel in solving standard cubes struggle to solve this one. Research into commercial use has been conducted, experimenting with how we can make people smarter or less smart with this.

Item-005

Description: Leg bone of unidentified creature and origin.

Properties: Whenever an individual holds this bone, as long as the holder's skin has direct contact with the surface of the bone, they will believe with 100% sincerity that it belongs to them regardless of what they are told.

Fig. 1. Item-005: Leg bone of unidentified creature and origin.

Item-006

Description: A Yorkshire Hound dog with a cataract in one eye and a stubby tail.

Properties: This dog is capable of breaking many different laws of physics. Which law is broken and when it occurs appears to be random. Currently, the dog can float 2cm off the ground. However, it has previously been able to generate immense levels of heat and radiation as well as create matter from nothing.

Item-007

Description: A drawing of a man with his only facial feature being an eye in the centre of his face.

Properties: Whenever a feline of any breed walks past this image, the eye on the face will animate and constantly look at the cat, until the cat is outside of its viewing range. The cats have never responded to this item, and it is unknown whether or not someone or something is watching on the other side. Maybe they just love cats.

Item-008

Description: A man claiming to be called Matt Gardner.

Properties: No recorded human wrote the description of Item-008. Matt Gardner appeared on this file randomly with no human input. It was later discovered that there was a man claiming to be called Matt Gardner inside a humanoid cell in facility 50. The man's only memory is that he was called Matt Gardner and so far, there is still no explanation of how his name entered this database. The individual claiming to be called Matt Gardner is being thoroughly investigated.

Item-009

Description: A conventional clothing nametag for an unknown store brand reading "Mathew Kardigain".

Properties: "Anyone holding the nametag will be convinced that their name is Garry Carbeck" – Garry Carbeck.

"It has also been noted that anyone wearing the tag also signs off all their forms of communication with their name." – Garry Carbeck.

"As soon as you stop wearing the tag you will remember your real name." – Garry Carbeck (My actual name is Garry Carbeck).

"Ignore the last entry for Item-009, his real name wasn't Garry Carbeck" – Garry Carbeck.

"For some reason, people really like wearing this tag. So far there is no discernible reason for this." – Garry Carbeck.

Item-010

Description: An unbranded pair of headphones, they seem somewhat expensive.

Properties: When worn, even when unconnected from any device, the message "eat nards" can be heard in Morse code. – Garry Carbeck. (The previous author of entry for Item-010 has been disposed of due to reluctance to remove Item-009).

Item-011

Description: A crude drawing of a man holding a gun, seemingly drawn by a child. There is a speech bubble pointing to the man that says the words "Hands up".

Properties: Whenever anyone within proximity yells "shoot" around the image, a 9mm pistol round falls on their head. The bullet seemingly appears out of nowhere, and when

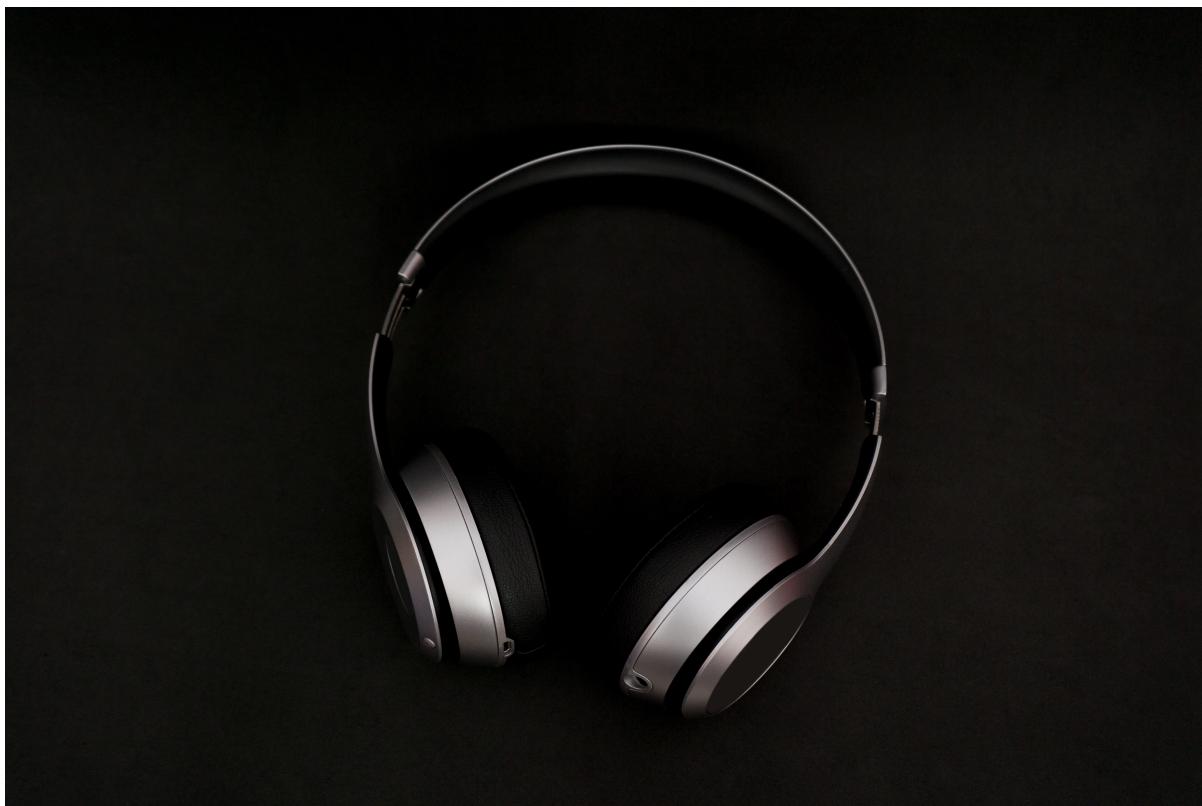

Fig. 2. Item-010 - An unbranded pair of headphones tested functions identically to a standard bullet. Only one reported injury caused by the bullet falling on someone's head. [See addendum 1]

Item-012

Description: A large stone tablet about 1 metre x 1 metre with a spiral etched onto it.

Properties: The spiral appears to be either clockwise or counter-clockwise depending on your viewing perspective of the tablet. It has been speculated that the spiral exists in both states and the tablet itself warps the fabric of reality around it, making both versions of it perceivable based on how you look at it.

Item-013

Description: A strange ant colony.

Properties: Despite being ants in every physical and observable way, they act like bees. Not just in terms of behavior but they engage in activities that would otherwise be impossible for normal ants, for example, they are capable of producing very tasty honey. There have been considerations into monetising this honey and selling it.

Item-014

Description: A wheelchair with an expiatory message spray-painted on the back.

Properties: The message changes each time someone sits on the chair, examples include "I'm so sorry" or "I shouldn't have done that". When someone sits on the chair, their legs suddenly break.

Item-015

Description: Item-015.

Properties: Item-015 is unable to be described as anything other than Item-015; any attempt to describe it using any medium results in the written word Item-015. Item-015 appears to be very Item-015; when interacting with it, the person becomes [REDACTED], and Item-015 remains Item-015.

Item-IGNORAMUS

Description: The dumbass who wrote this is especially stupid.

Properties: The idiot who wrote this learns that whenever some actual moron attempts to describe this object like the failure they are, they end up writing a self-deprecating block of text like an asshole. Gods, I could punch myself, I'm honestly the worst scientist here. I can't even write about a simple object like this without looking like the most moronic, stupid, crazy idiot in this damnable facility.

Item-017

Description: An insulin vial, half full, presumably filled with insulin.

Properties: When an individual holds this item, their total net worth starts disappearing at a rate of 15 pence per second. This usually starts with their physical money and stored money in bank accounts. It will then move onto physical assets making parts of them worth 15 pence disappear per second. In one case, an individual's car was gradually disassembled without them knowing due to them accidentally falling asleep while holding the vial.

Item-018

Description: A red Christmas stocking.

Properties: The stocking can only be described as red when in reality it is actually red, I mean red. It is red. It is the color opposite the color I just said on the color wheel.

Item-019

Description: A fish of unknown species and origination.

Properties: Whenever in front of someone who was born outside of wedlock, the fish is capable of saying the word "Bastard" in perfect English. We have contemplated monetising this fish by helping with legal cases involving marriage and adultery although it is still pending approval.

Item-020

Description: A calcium supplement in the form of a small pill, there are currently 129 pills left.

Properties: When swallowed, the subject will begin to turn into stone. The subject must focus on their bodily constitution; otherwise, they will begin to stiffen up and become restrained. If the subject fails to successfully hone their constitution, they will eventually turn completely to stone for 3 hours. No calcium-related health benefits have been recorded, although if turned to stone it does make the subject very resistant to external force. Military applications have been considered.

Item-021

Description: A Victorian-era doll made of felt and cloth.

Properties: The doll seems to respond to certain audio stimuli; when told "Go away", the doll will teleport in a random direction exactly 3 miles away from whoever said it. The doll will always teleport to an unoccupied space. There have been unsuccessful attempts at harnessing its teleportation powers. Other audio stimuli have had unpredictable results, most notably the ████ of Dr. Mulhouse.

Item-022

Description: A large nuclear warhead dated from the latter part of the Cold War.

Properties: The bomb was deemed obsolete, so it was to be safely detonated in a remote location. Instead of creating a nuclear explosion, the bomb instead created a field of flowers in a radius similar to what would've been the explosion radius.

Item-023

Description: A large hardware lock made from peanut shells.

Properties: The lock itself functions exactly how a standard locking mechanism would, albeit less secure due to being made from peanut shells. Most notably, people who are allergic to peanuts do not experience adverse reactions from exposure to it. There has been research into this item to see if it can be helpful to find a cure for peanut allergy.

Fig. 3. Modern day site of the nuclear explosion caused by Item-022

Item-024

Description: A word synonymous with "Shallowness".

Properties: The word itself is known to exist, but the word itself is not known. Any attempts to try and discover the word have resulted in futile findings and insanity. LLMs have repeatedly showcased hallucinations when tasked to find the word.

Item-025

Description: A female humanoid named Sarah.

Properties: Sarah is unable to have a last name. Research into Sarah has shown that she doesn't exist, at least not in any database the corporation has access to. When a surname has been ascribed to Sarah, it simply doesn't register digitally, and physically. People seem to just forget or lose any memory of her ever having a surname.

Item-026

Description: A 1950s car of unknown make.

Properties: The car acts the opposite of how a conventional car operates. When this car has fuel in its tank, it is unable to drive and runs only without it. When driving without gas, the car slowly fills up with gas, needing it to be siphoned out to function properly. There is potential here to generate infinite fuel if it can be upscaled.

Item-027

Description: A 1980s Grand Car of unknown make.

Properties: When driven, the driver temporarily gains the ability to read the mind of whoever is sitting in the passenger seat so long as the passenger is there consensually. This car has proved useful in consensual interrogations - just don't tell the person who's being interrogated that the car can be used to read their mind. [See addendum 2]

Item-028

Description: A small hole in the universe the size of a dime.

Properties: This strange hole can only be perceived in one place in 3 dimensions (a corporate holding site was built around it). When you look into the hole, you can see what is either another universe or a different part of our universe. Any attempts to traverse or touch the hole have resulted in extremely graphic deaths.

Item-029

Description: A male humanoid named Carl Baker.

Properties: This humanoid currently has a wooden mallet attached to his arm instead of a hand. Engraved on the mallet is the number 1110111. No one, Carl Baker included, knows how the mallet got there. The surgical techniques used to attach this prosthesis don't match any known techniques.

Item-030

Description: A photograph of the late Containcorp CEO and Founder, Isaac Ksicher.

Properties: When viewed by an acting CEO of Containcorp, the national anthem of Czechoslovakia starts playing from an unknown source. Text reading "Seek the truth, hear the truth, learn the truth, love the truth, speak the truth, hold the truth and defend the truth until death." Then the same text appears on the photograph. This text appears to be connected with the national slogan of the Czech Republic.

4 Postscript

4.1 Addendum 1

Extract from a Post Incident Report, submitted to Chief Scientific Director for Facility 45, Dr. Christian Pool.

"The full extent of the picture's behaviour wasn't known and, with hindsight, it was a risk in itself placing the object in a Blue Clearance Level area. The same day coinciding with the "Take Your Child to Work Day" publicity stunt left a serious possibility for harm, which unfortunately unfolded.

At 17:03, Dr. A Youngs was packing up her laptop, and had left the picture on her desk, which was then mistakenly picked up with other documents surrounding the one in question, while tending to her daughter. Her daughter, who had been shadowing for the day, was being prepped for short term mind erasure - as per normal protocol.

Once home, at 18:21, Dr. Youngs was explaining to her husband what their child had achieved at work. At this point, the picture dropped out of her work satchel. Her husband saw the picture, and joked "Don't shoot!" resulting in a 9mm pistol round falling on his head from a few feet above. Given his fragile bones due to osteoporosis, the impact of the bullet caused a hairline fracture in his skull...

...there have been multiple breaches in security protocols, and leadership for which I take full responsibility, and hand in my resignation.

[END OF TRANSCRIPT]

4.2 Addendum 2

Transcript from a dash cam, located in Item-027, that was recovered by the Corporation.

[START OF TRANSCRIPT]

[16/03, 20:01] [REDACTED] (passenger): This is so many levels of messed up. How long have you been reading my thoughts?

[16/03, 20:01] [REDACTED] (driver): Since... we got the car.

[16/03, 20:01] [REDACTED] (passenger): That was 2 years ago are you actually kidding me.

[16/03, 20:01] [REDACTED] (driver): Don't shout at me like that. I'm being truthful, I could've kept this to myself forever. But now I'm telling you the truth, you're still mad.

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (passenger): There's no way. There's actually no way you think I should be grateful?

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (driver): You're lucky that no else much worse than myself was given this gift!

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (passenger): Unlock the door. Right now.

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (driver): Where are you going to go, huh?

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (passenger): Let me out. I swear to god if you don't I'm going to-

[16/03, 20:02] [REDACTED] (driver): Going to what? I know exactly what you're thinking. Your every intention.

[Pause]

[16/03, 20:03] [REDACTED] (driver): Wait. What did you do - did you shut me out?

[16/03, 20:03] [REDACTED] (passenger): [REDACTED]. Let me out of this car right now.

[16/03, 20:03] [REDACTED] (driver): I can't see your thoughts. How are you doing this. Let me back in.

[Window shattering]

[16/03, 20:03] [REDACTED] (driver): Are you fucking crazy! What did you do to me? How are you shielding thoughts?

[16/03, 20:04] [REDACTED] (passenger): Let go of me! Help. Anyone. Help me!

[Scrambling can be heard, before a gun shot]

[END OF TRANSCRIPT]

A Designations

A.1 S-0065

"List of Unremarkable Objects"

A.2 Isaac Ksicher

Founder of the Containment Corporation

CONFIDENTIAL